CASCADE PACIFIC COUNCIL

*Celebrating 100 years
of Scouting in northwest
Oregon and southwest
Washington: 1916 - 2016*

Dear Life Scout:

Congratulations on the attainment of the rank of Life Scout. This is indeed a very significant achievement.

While reaching the rank of Life is a difficult accomplishment, your greatest task is yet ahead as you challenge yourself to become an Eagle Scout. It will take real effort and commitment on your part to meet that challenge.

Enclosed is a packet of information that will help you in completing the requirements, and forms for making application to the Boy Scouts for the Eagle rank. The requirements for Eagle Scout are clearly defined in our Boy Scout Handbook. The packet contains a workbook for doing your Eagle project and information for completing your application. You are expected to do no more, or less, than is defined by the requirements in the packet.

Please read the packet carefully and talk to your Scoutmaster about the information and your plans. If you have questions, please contact your district advancement chairman or the council service center at the number listed below.

We challenge you to remain active in Scouting and to give back to the program the leadership that has been given to you by others. Attaining the rank of Eagle Scout is truly one of the most important recognitions that you will ever receive, and something that will be remembered for the rest of your life.

Again, our congratulations.
